WALTER WETMORE | CAPTAIN

Captain Walter Wetmore is a fifth-generation sailor. He comes from a long line of mariners. He started his professional maritime career in 1989 as Captain for the owner of Archie Comic books aboard the sailing yacht Riverdale High. In the years since, Captain Walter has sailed from Hawaii to Turkey and from south of the Equator to north of the Arctic Circle. During his long and successful career, in addition to mega yachts, he has worked on tugboats in Valdez, Alaska, Norfolk, Virginia and Port Everglades, Florida. He has worked on the Ocean Research Vessel Endeavor belonging to the University of Rhode Island, recovering torpedoes with the U.S. Navy and the Nantucket–Martha's Vineyard Ferry. Captain Wetmore holds a USCG 1600/3000-Ton Ocean Masters License as well as the equivalent British license. Walter is a resident of Jamestown, RI. His hobbies include the restoration of antique automobiles, the oldest being a 1931 Chevrolet. What Walt enjoys most about yachting is being able to show his guests the islands of the Caribbean, the Bahamas, East Coast of the United States. Being a Yankee, he can show off New England and Down East as very few other Captains can.

RIO ALEXANDER HENDRIX DUBBERSTEIN | CHEF

Rio Alexander's love of food developed early on in life, growing up amidst Northern California's organic food movement. Learning from a gourmet mother and German grandmother, he started experimenting and developing his palate working with home grown vegetables and meats from surrounding farms. His parents were world travelers and encouraged the development of Rio's love of travel and the ocean from an early age, traveling internationally with other homes in Mexico and Connecticut where he started windsurfing, boating, and scuba diving. During his teens, his tastes and culinary expertise developed further while living abroad France, Italy, Egypt, and Spain over the course of eight years. While living in Paris, Rio attended the Cordon Bleu as well as several museum schools, achieving degrees in art history, museum studies, and the culinary arts. After returning to the United States, Rio worked for many years in restaurants in San Francisco, Los Angeles, and New York, while also engaging in many years of private chef work for a variety of prominent families internationally, and over a dozen high-profile celebrities Rio speaks French and Spanish almost fluently, and is also a PADI certified Dive Master, licensed sky-diver, snowboarder, and a world class champion equestrian show jumper and polo player. He has now been working as executive chef on superyachts for almost a decade in the Mediterranean, Caribbean, and South Pacific. Rio brings flair and panache to every plate, table, and event.

JESSICA GEE | CHIEF STEEW

Jessica was born and raised in Buffalo, New York. She comes from a large Polish family with nine siblings. After completing her undergraduate degree in Biological Sciences at Buffalo State University, she decided it was time to trade in her snowboard for a scuba tank and relocated to Wilmington, North Carolina to pursue a master's degree in Marine Biology. While residing in the beautiful coastal city of Wilmington, she put her academics on hold to try her hand at a career in the adventurous world of yachting in 2014. Five years and 60 passport stamps later, Jessica is extremely happy with her decision. Jessica takes pride in her excellent knowledge of all types of services and housekeeping including her flower and decorating skills with her ability to predict guest's needs. Jessica is sure to make any charter guest's experience a memory to remember.

ELIZABETH STONE | SECOND STEW

Elizabeth was born and raised in central Texas and enjoyed exploring the many lakes in the area. After receiving her communication degree from Texas A&M, she immediately moved to Hawaii to gain experience in the hospitality industry along with following her passion for all things ocean. She then moved to Charleston, SC to study yoga and received her teaching certificate while working her way up in the hospitality world. Elizabeth has travelled all over the world including the Middle East but bonding with students while teaching English in Guangzhou, China was her absolute favorite. Elizabeth discovered yachting a few years ago and hasn't looked back. Whether you need a strong cocktail or a fun workout, she's your girl!
